OUR VISION
Young volunteers from Israel and the Jewish diaspora acting together for the advancement of social resilience of undeserved populations and communities around the world. Activities are conducted in cooperation with local organizations in the spirit of universal Jewish values, so as to represent the Jewish People and the state of Israel in a dignified manner. Volunteers leverage their experience to become involved social leaders in their home communities.

WHO WE ARE
Project TEN runs a network of volunteer centers around the world which are immersed in the local communities. We currently offer a three month track that focuses on informal educational programming as well as empowering the local community. In Israel, our program duration is five months and includes a similar programming as well as opportunities for strengthening and advancing a shared society between Jewish and Arab populations. We also offer customized short-term programs during the spring, summer, and winter breaks. Our volunteers are 18–28 years old who are committed to social action and sustainable change.

OUR GOALS
ADVANCE social action, Tikkun Olam, and improving the quality of life of vulnerable populations around the world.

DEVELOP and promote partnerships and alliances with local communities on sustainable models of intervention in the fields of education and community.

CULTIVATE ties between young Israelis and their Diaspora peers, based on shared values and commitment to the Jewish people.

CONTRIBUTE to the personal and Jewish development of the volunteers and help shape their world view.

BUILD a network of active and committed Jewish adults who are committed to their home communities.

IMPROVE the image and bolster the position of the State of Israel around the world.
Join one of our Project TEN centers around the world for 3-5 months of daily work with local communities. We focus on education as the main element of our volunteer work.

Spend your free weekends traveling around these exotic and awesome locations. You can raft down the Nile river, visit beautiful cities, relax on beaches, backpack through nature and much more.

Our volunteers participate in an intense educational curriculum. We discuss topics such as international development, poverty, social activism, Jewish responsibility and local culture.

BOOKS & THINGS LEARNING CENTERS: INFORMAL METHODS OF EDUCATION

Project TEN locates a physical space in each country to be used as an educational center that is accessible to schools and communities. The volunteers and the staff initiate educational activities for the benefit of the local community. The primary focus of these activities is on developing life skills through play and experiential learning. The activities in the Books & Things Learning Centers are intended for children and youth, but as part of the holistic and comprehensive vision of Project TEN. The volunteers also work with all the other change agents relevant to a child’s life: parents, teachers, and leaders in the community.

ETHICAL CODE

Our volunteers are guided to do everything in their power in order to conduct themselves with cultural sensitivity through careful acquaintance and tuning in to the local perspective, not just their own. Professionalism to follow the code of ethics and the guidance of head quarters and staff on the ground, humility in working with the community, respect for the local people, proper, safe and supervised work with children and youth, respectful and limited photography policies, respectful representation of their origins and of the State of Israel, all these are principles that lead TEN’s Directors and Coordinators and the volunteers in every activity that takes place anywhere in the world.
